Factory Premixed Colors vs. Custom Colors

Whenever possible we recommend using factory premixed colors because they are mixed in exact proportions using granular pigments which generally provide better color retention and reduce fading over the life of the paint job. Unfortunately, there are only a select number colors available in factory Pre-mixed colors. There are hundreds or thousands of choices in custom colors from liquid (added at the paint store) pigments. We can show you a fan deck of colors or you can stop by a local Paint Retailer and pick up some color charts.

Variations in Color - Custom Colors

Custom Colors often look different from the sample cards supplied by the manufacturer. If you are very particular about getting the right color, you should request test patches be done to make sure the color is what you want. Color changes after the paint has been purchased can be very costly in materials and labor.

Two or more Coats

In the event you change the color after job has commenced or select a color that does not cover in the number of coats contracted for, you may be charged an additional amount for materials and labor.

I have selected the following colors:

_____ I would like MDL Restoration Inc. to purchase the smallest quantity of paint in a particular color and to paint a test patch of approximately 2 Square feet to let me view the paint before proceeding to purchase all of the material for the job. I understand there will be an additional charge for labor and materials if the paint color is changed after the job starts. One test patch can be performed for the cost of the paint $15.00/Qt. $25.00/gallon. (Additional test patches will be billed at $35.00 for quarts and $45.00 for gallons if the material is not used on the job. The reason for the additional charge is for the cost of making several trips to the paint store to select colors. I have read and understand this page and understand that changes to color selections can affect the final cost of the paint job.
